DEDICATION

TO

HERBERT T. RICH, HEADMASTER EMERITUS

Herbert T. Rich, headmaster of the Brighton High School from 1928 to 1941, has left upon this school the indelible print of his character.

He graduated from Harvard University in the class of 1896. For thirty years he was a teacher at the Boston Public Latin School. He taught German and Greek, and from the ranks of the alumni able doctors, lawyers, and businessmen often made their way back to him to express their gratitude for his logical presentation of the subject which he taught, his kind help at the right moment, and his boundless energy in teaching. Students often marvelled at the accurate information and willing help which he gave to them whether that help were in Mathematics, Languages, or Science.

He did not serve long as headmaster of Brighton High School before he had made it his own. He instituted many reforms which tightened discipline, raised the standards of scholarship, and at the same time, made the students participants in school activities, many of which came into being under his fostering hand.

Important as was the contribution he made to the school by the depth of his scholarship, even greater was the contribution he made to the student body by the example of integrity, sincerity, unselfish devotion to the attainment of a worthy goal, and the ability to receive another's opinion or criticism with a positively unprejudiced and open mind. He had the wisdom to know what to do, the skill to know how to do it, and the virtue to do it.

In recognition of his splendid achievement for the benefit of our school, in recognition of the debt which the Brighton High School owes to him, and will continue to owe to him down the years, and in recognition of his gift of VOLUME ONE of the Gothic to the Senior Class of 1928, the Senior Class of 1942 dedicates this fourteenth volume of the Gothic to Herbert T. Rich.

DEDICATION

FOREWORD

It is with a special warmth in my heart that I say "Godspeed" to the Graduates of the Class of 1942. You are going forth into a national crisis, the gravity of which has no parallel in the history books that you have only just now closed. This knowledge has deepened and enriched you as personalities. It has brought a quickening sense of purpose and direction into your young lives. With an intelligent grasp of the problems of this complex age, you go forth with eagerness and determination to take your place in the war-torn world of today.

For the first time in many years you graduates know that there is a place waiting for you in the great plan of American defense—military, naval, and civilian. The wheels of industry are turning, and the sinews of labor are straining to the gigantic task of national armament. You comprehend the enormity of the struggle that America must make in the days immediately ahead to reach her maximum fighting strength, and you are well aware of the pressing need for your personal effort in this great struggle. Opportunities unconceived of when you started upon your high school course now spring open before you. All the agencies of prruction, all the departments of business and finance call out to you to put into practical use the knowledge, the power, and the skill that you have acquired in your school life.

Those of you who are going on into higher fields of study acknowledge the responsibility resting upon you to make the next few years a preparation, serious and intensive, for special fields of work necessary to the preservation of our American institutions. But, wherever you answer the call to service, our nation needs today not alone the work of your hands and your brains; she needs the enthusiasm of your youthful spirits as well. She needs your deep faith in the future of your country, your firm belief in her democratic way of life, your calm assurance that the forces of good will ultimately triumph over the forces of evil.

The Class of 1942 is already represented in the fighting forces of America. Some boys have left their books and classrooms to enlist; others, upon graduation, will join them. We are proud of all these brave, gallant lads; proud, too, of our valiant alumni who have taken up arms in their country's defense.

With sincere affection the thoughts of you, the Seniors have turned very often this year to our beloved Headmaster Emeritus, Mr. Herbert T. Rich, under whose inspiring leadership you have spent most of your high school life. I know that I voice your feelings as well as my own when I extend to Mr. Rich my heartiest felicitations upon the leisure days that come to him now as a well-earned reward. To both teachers and pupils alike he gave the fine example of a keen intelligence and genial personality moving with all kindliness and courtesy toward the realization of his plans and hopes for this school. Personally, it has been a privilege to work with so fine a man and so distinguished an educator.

The Gothic will be a constant pride to you as the completed pattern of your happy days at Brighton High School. No matter into what different walks of life you go; no matter what different experiences come to you in the grim war years ahead, you will always be together in the pages of this Year Book—Classmates forever!

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Mr. Leary and Members of the Faculty, to you, I address the sincere expression of gratitude felt for you by the Class of 1942.

This Class, as it nears the close of the Senior Year, naturally becomes reminiscent of the years that have rolled by under your benevolent guidance. In these moments of remembrance, the examples you have given us of fairness, honor, the standards of scholarship and of true, fine leadership appear so genuine. We cannot leave without attempting to make you know how truly we shall miss you.

EDITORS NOTE

Classmates all,

You and I are grateful to the members of the Gothic Staff who worked seriously and with a sense of responsibility to you in the production of this volume.

The Staff and I had the advantage of the experienced hand of Miss Elizabeth I. O'Neill in making our way through the difficulties of producing the first war time volume of the Senior Annual.

Having, all the cooperation which I have mentioned would not have produced a book without the encouragement, ready help, and sincere personal interest of Joseph A. Leary, the youngest head master to guide the destiny of Brighton High School in the one hundred years of its existence.

Although the defense of our country may call us into ranks that will separate this class, it is my purpose to make this book the link that binds us classmates forever!

Fraternally yours,
Coburn V. Graves, Editor-in-Chief

CLASS POEM

VALE

Farewell, O stately granite walls,
Farewell, dear guardian of our youth;
You send us forth to stand beside
The hosts who fight for truth.

Beyond our Castle on the Hill
Dark shadows touch the road ahead;
With courage kindled at your shrine
We face a future dread.

A world in chaos challenges,
With tyrant's war and bitter strife,
Each valiant young American
To fight for Freedom's life.

On Duty's path you've set our feet,
Wise Alma Mater, and for you
We'll lift the torch; and hold it high
For God and country, too.

Beloved guide of Brighton's youth,
One hundred years of history
Lie in your keeping; yours the hand
That moulded Brighton's destiny.

Today, as in the long ago,
Your noble love of high endeavor
Inspires your children in the quest
Of glory for your name forever.

In court of law or senate halls,
In hospital or business mart,
In army, navy, or marines,
We'll honor you with hand and heart.

Always, dear mother, faithful friend,
We, who must leave you now, will try,
By serving well our fellow-men,
To bring new fame to Brighton High.

THE GLEE CLUB

President	Myna W. Killion
Vice President	Virginia Stickney
Secretary-Treasurer	Pauline Lyons

In its entirety the Glee Club has thirty-five members, all girls. The club is under the able direction of Mr. T. Francis Burke. Each year Mr. Burke forms an octet of picked voices. This group has sung many times in the Assembly Hall.

The members of the octet are: sopranos, Elizabeth Reino and Marilyn Shotz; second sopranos, Emerald Foster and Virginia Stickney; first altos, Lorraine Sears and Phillis Nelson; second altos, Kathleen Sullivan and Myna Killion.

The combined efforts of all the members have resulted in delightful and profitable hours of music for the members themselves and have provided well-received entertainment for the school and has proved its loyalty to the school by its desire to serve.

Myna Killion, President

B. H. S. PATROL

Each year the Head of the Business Department, Mr. Carey, is obliged to choose twenty senior boys of good standing to serve on the B. H. S. Patrol.

Many of our newly acquired privileges may be traced back to our Student Council. Henceforth, it was the duty of the "colorful arm banded patrol" to see that these advantages were not abused by overactive pupils. Each boy was carefully appointed to a position in the lunchroom where he would be of most value in making sure that bottles and debris were placed in their proper receptacles.

Meetings were held in Mr. Carey's room after school where the active members, such as, Carl De Rubeis, leader of the second lunch period, with his able lieutenants Joseph Aldonis and Robert Gallagher convened to exchange helpful hints or tactics to leaders Mark Curran, George Greene, and others of the first lunch period. The "Patrol" proved a success in relieving congestion and maintaining a neat and orderly eating place.

Joseph Gately, Captain

ORCHESTRA

The orchestra has been greatly enlarged and improved this year. A few selected pieces have formed an octet. By means of the skillful instruction from Mr. D. Struthers and guidance from Mr. W. C. Burnham of the faculty, the orchestra has made a number of successful appearances. During the year, it has played at evening school graduation, assemblies, the senior play and class day. The orchestra consisted of two pianos, eight violins, one 'cello, and seven trumpets, as well as eight clarinets, one tuba, two drums, and a marimba.

THE READING CLUB

President . Ruth Dyer

Secretary-Treasurer
Miriam Tuton

Considered the most outstanding club of the school, The Reading Club is composed of senior girls who were honor students in English in their junior year. There are usually from fifty to sixty members, for almost everyone who is eligible is eager to join. Meetings are held the second and fourth Tuesday of each month in the art rooms. Miss Bailey and Miss Marshall are the excellent advisors of this popular club.

The purpose of The Reading Club is to afford the girls an opportunity to broaden their acquaintance with good books and authors, and to share the fun of talking about old and new literary friends.

Programs are widely varied, and include such subjects as nonsense, verse, magazines, favorite novels, biography, salty sea yarns, current books, western, southern or New England tales, children's day, animal day, melancholy meanderings, glimpses of national literatures. Special programs are planned for Thanksgiving Day, Christmas, Valentine Day, Mother's Day, and important literary anniversaries. We have frequent short plays like "The Traveling Man" and "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals".

Mr. Rich was delighted to receive, on his birthday, a book, "The New Hope" by Lincoln, from the Reading Club.

Field trips this year included a fascinating tour of "The Boston Globe" plant, where we saw a newspaper in the making, visits to the Art Museum and the Gardner Palace, and a memorable afternoon at the Book Fair hearing newsman W. H. Chamberlin, fashion expert John Powers, and poets Robert P. T. Coffin and Lawrence McKinney. A highlight of this day was Helen Moseley's winning of an autographed copy of "The Powers Girls".

A year of pleasant activity ended brilliantly on Junior Day when we entertained the girls who will be next year's Reading Club with music, a play, games, and delicious refreshments.

As we reluctantly leave The Reading Club behind us, with the other joys of our senior year, we hope our successors will carry on its splendid tradition, and find in it the satisfaction and enjoyment that we have found.

MUSIC APPRECIATION CLUB

The Music Appreciation Club is composed of junior and senior girls interested in all varieties of classical music. Under the able supervision and guidance of Miss Miller, our faculty adviser, the club has thrived.

Our collection of records include many symphonic pieces and suites such as Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony" and Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite". We also have selections from operas and operettas such as the "Soldiers' Chorus" from "Faust" and extracts from Gilbert and Sullivan. During the year we were able to purchase a phonograph so that our members can more readily enjoy our library of music.

The officers for the year 1941-42 were:

PRESIDENT	Leona Bell
VICE-PRESIDENT . .	Dorothy Lidstone
SECRETARY . . .	Jacqueline Burns
TREASURER	Marjorie Neilly

THE SWIMMING CLUB

With much gratitude and appreciation to Miss Miller for her assistance, the Swimming Club completes one more successful year.

Many happy hours have been spent at Curtis Hall by the members who thoroughly enjoyed themselves under the guidance of capable instructors. A few of the girls proved themselves to be expert swimmers. These gladly passed along helpful tips to the less experienced girls.

To the senior classes which follow we leave our sincere wishes that they will prosper in future years as we have in "42".

This year, as in the past, the Dramatic Club was under the direction of Mr. McNamara. His splendid work and patience in teaching us the fine points in diction, clarity, expression, and poise have benefited us greatly.

We forfeited having parties in order that we might obtain an album by the noted John Gielgud. The members of the club spent many enjoyable hours listening to his recorded recitations.

At one of our early meetings we had the extreme pleasure of having Mr. and Mrs. Burnham as our guests.

The time enjoyed in the club will be a highlight in the memories of its members for many years.

Discussions and lectures were given by faculty advisers on art appreciation of various forms of art.

PRESIDENT . Grace Balian
VICE-PRESIDENT Hilda Morley
SECRETARY . Barbara Corbett
TREASURER . . Claire Farrell
HEAD OF ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE Constance Burke

The Home Economics Club under the direction of Miss Sylvester, meets weekly throughout the year. To join our club you must have either Foods, Dressmaking or Salesmanship.

Our aim is to develop an interest in the life of our community, to which we hope we can make some contribution.

We assisted the Policemen at their Hallowe-en party for the children of the district. Thanks to our Home Economics training we were able to help with the little ones.

We became acquainted with the Observation Tower on Cory Hill and the Air Raid report center in our own school. What a wonderful contribution the Citizens Civilians Corps gives to the Community!

If any accident occurs in Brighton, we hope some of our members are near to give a helping hand. We are sure that we could relieve injured persons of much suffering. Our bandages do stay in place!

You should see us struggling to knit for the Red Cross!

Best wishes for the coming year.

THE BAND

Officers

Captain	Manuel Horvitz
First Lieutenant	Paul Romano
Second Lieutenants	Raphael Gelt and Percy Johnson
Drum Major	James Hendrick

This year, more than any other, Brighton High School has produced a band worthy of note. Due to the splendid guidance of Mr. F. Sordillo, the assistant Director of Music in the Boston Public Schools, and Mr. Dowell who is in charge of the band, it has been able to supersede all other bands in the school up to this time.

The Band convenes every Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday. On Tuesday the instrumentation is divided into three groups, brass, tympani, and wood wind, each with its respective teacher for instruction. On Thursday the band plays as a whole, and on Friday, it meets in the gymnasium for military practice.

The organization has been asked many time during the school year to perform for assemblies of the school. The most important events of the curriculum of the band are the Prize Drill competition and the School Boys' Parade at which time it has more than proved its ability.

Much encomium is accredited to Messrs. Patch and Donovan for instruction for the brass, Mr. Gordner for instruction for the tympani, and Mr. Barret for instruction for the woodwind. I am sure that the efforts of these gentlemen have not been nugatory. It has been proven that without the loyalty and full co-operation of every member of the band it could not have succeeded as it has.

The band wishes to express its sincere wishes for success to Sergeant Francis Cunningham who has joined the Marines.

BRIGHTON HIGH SCHOOL DRUM CORPS

THE BUGLE AND DRUM CORPS

The Bugle and Drum Corps is more popular this year than it has been in the past. This organization is under the leadership of Mr. Donovan. He is ably assisted by Mr. Literinger who teaches the bugle class and Mr. Gardner who teaches the drum class.

The Bugle and Drum Corps is larger and has progressed rapidly due to the fact that more school spirit has been shown at all times.

The officers of the Drum and Bugle Corps are the following:

Captain	James Davis
First Lieutenant and Drum Major	George Marchione
Lieutenants	James Norton and Lawrence Quinn

PRIZE DRILL

After a year of intensive preparation, the ten companies of the Brighton Regiments, determined to show the results of their efforts, marched, each in turn, proudly, with spirits high and heads erect in quest of recognition as being the best company of one of the best regiments in the city. After each company had displayed its wares, the judges awarded the following prizes:

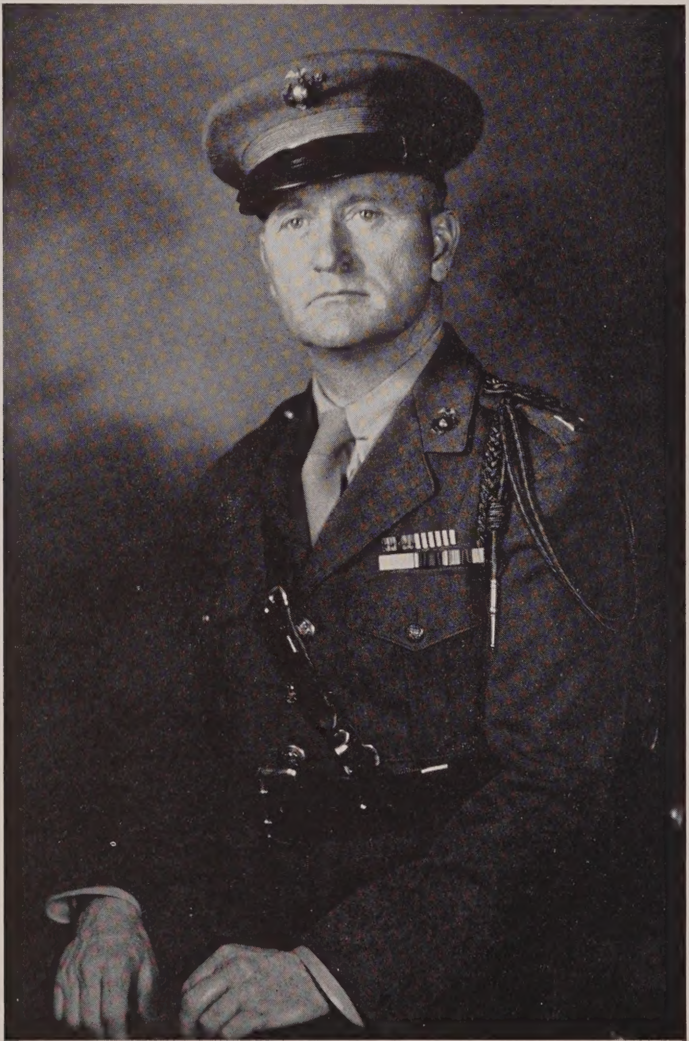
1st Prize—Bernard McNamara	3rd Prize—John Bosworth
2nd Prize—John Glynn	4th Prize—Clifford Cassidy

5th Prize—John Solferino

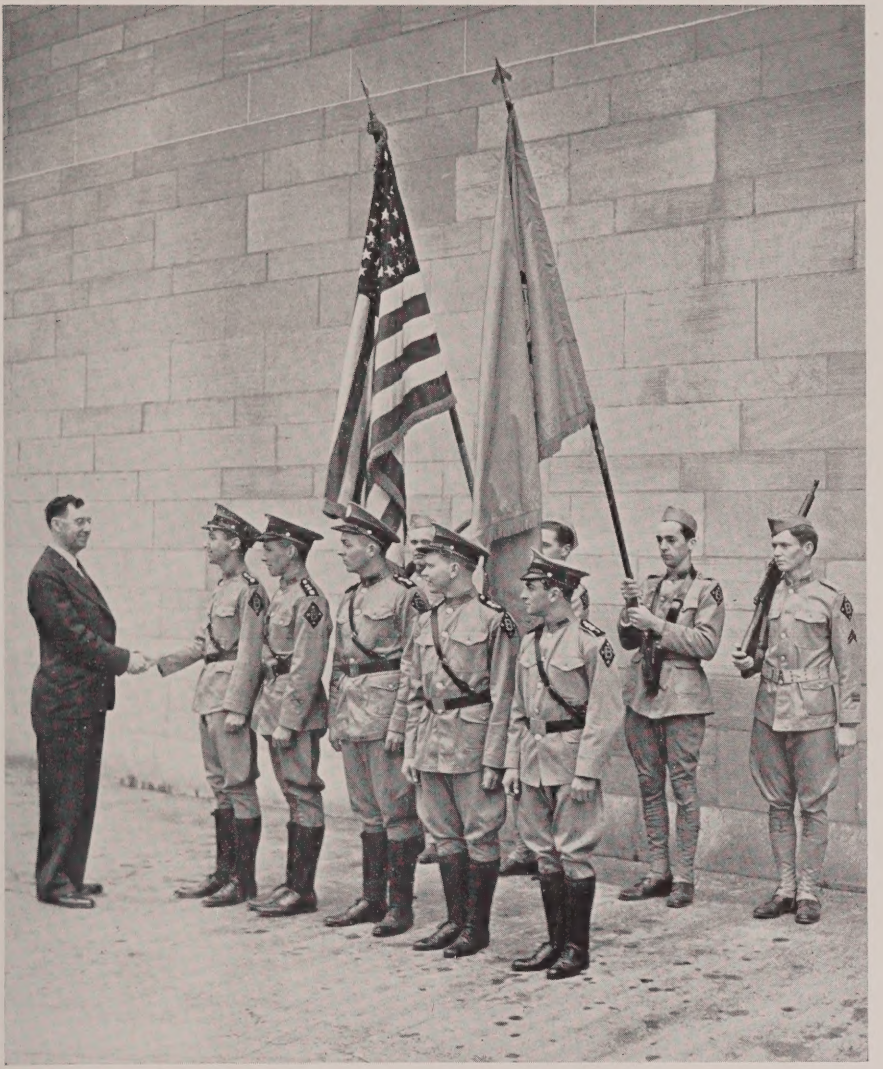
The music provided by the Band and the Bugle and Drum Corps created an inspiring atmosphere for the cadets. The spectators showed their appreciation by their enthusiastic cheering as each company completed its drill on the field.

The esprit de corps inspired by Captain Dallahan resulted in the maintenance of the high standards in drill that Brighton High School has held throughout its years of participation in military drill.

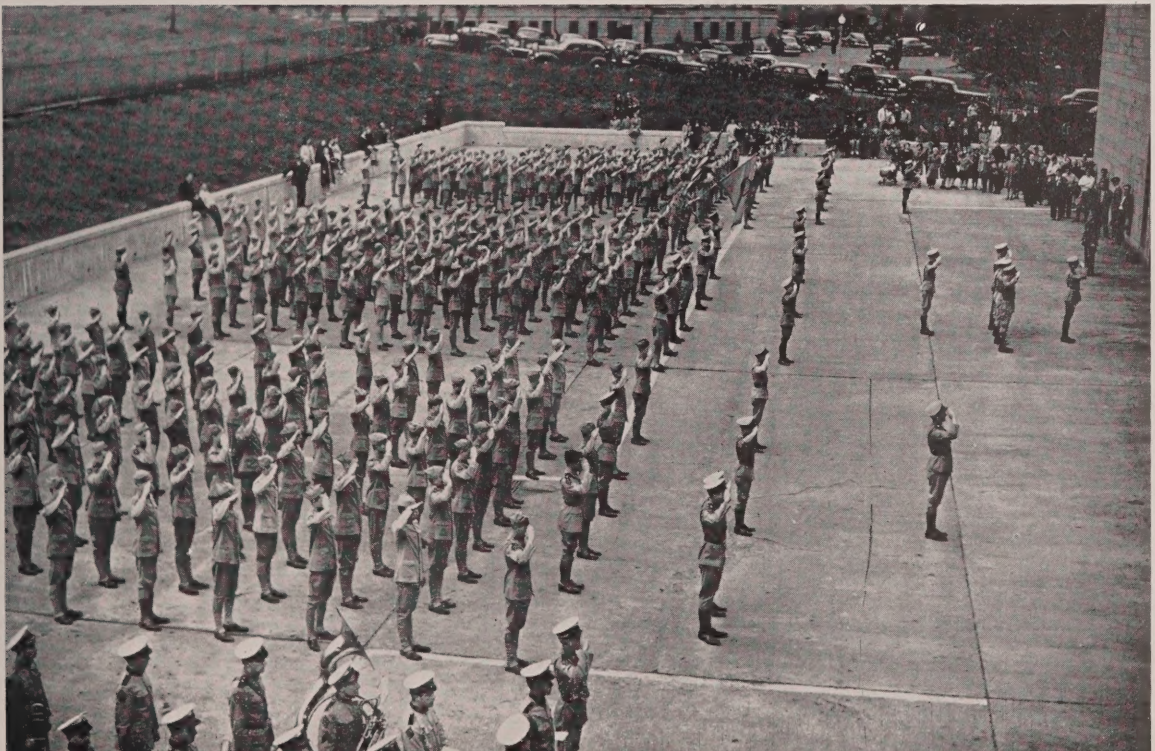
We appreciate the importance of military drill especially at this time when many of our number have already joined the armed services with more to follow.



CAPT. ROBERT V. DALLAHAN, U.S.M.C.



WINNING OFFICERS



OFFICERS' CLUB

With the return of Captain Dallahan, who was the first Boston School employee to be called to the colors in this war, from active service with the Marines in the tropics, to Brighton High School, interest in reorganizing the Cadet Officers' Club was revived. Because no executive officers were elected for this club, the functions of the club were performed by the committees appointed to carry out their designated work.

Cadet officers, nominated by the Instructor of Military Drill, Captain Dallahan, who were determined scholastically eligible by Mr. Tully of the English Department were commissioned by the Headmaster, Joseph A. Leary.

The cadet officers of the Brighton High School Regiment proved their worth as officers by the efficient and impressive manner in which they escorted the parents and friends of the pupils of Brighton High School on the annual Parents' Day.

In these troublesome times, the motto of the Officers' Club, "Honor, Duty, Brighton," instilled its full significance in its members.

CLASS DAY 1942

On the day which was to culminate our school life, Class Day, the weather was fittingly beautiful. The brilliant sun beamed down over the equally brilliant Class of 1942 on the school terrace. Here we carried out the traditional ceremonies of Class Day.

Representing the Spirit of Brighton High School, Elaine Burke sat in the place of honor looking down over the assembled class.

All eyes were fixed on John Glynn, the Class Herald, as he stepped forward to deliver the opening address.

HERALD

I. Hear ye! Parents and comrades! We the Class of 1942 gladly welcome you on this our festive day. For three happy years Brighton High School has been our Alma Mater. Now we stand at the open door, ready to leave her sheltering walls for the great adventure of life. Ere we say a courageous "All hail" to the unknown future, we pause for a sad and grateful farewell to our loved school. Let the Representatives of the Juniors, who will so soon move forward into our places, now join the Seniors in singing "Hail, dear ALMA MATER" in tribute to Brighton High School.

II. Some among us merit especial recognition for high scholastic achievement which brings them well deserved rewards, and reflects honor on their school.

1. Let the winner of the Anna Judson George Scholarship for excellence in English (Constance G. Brinkman) receive from the Spirit of her Alma Mater the symbol of her victory.

2. Let the winners of the Brighthelmstone Club Scholarships (Coburn V. Graves, Jacqueline M. Burns and Muriel Appel) receive the meed of their intellectual conquests from the Spirit of Brighton High School.

3. Let the Senior and Junior Honor students unite in placing the laurels of their attainments at the feet of their Alma Mater.

4a. We now bestow praise on a member of the Senior Class (George F. Greene) who has been conspicuous during the year in promoting the Brighton High School spirit in athletics, both in school and on the field, and who has been personally faithful, honorable and reliable.

Let him come forward to receive a medal which betokens his accomplishment.

4b. We also commend a member of the Senior Class (Helen Moseley) who has won distinction in the course in Physical Education.

Let her come forward that her Alma Mater may honor her with the emblem of her leadership.

5. To one school are we loyal, and in our loyalty we are united. But we are "many members in one body." Our various courses give opportunity for the full development of various powers.

Let a representative of our Co-operative Course (Robert Porter) appear to pay homage to our Alma Mater.

Let next a member of our Commercial Course (Phyllis Healy) render grateful acknowledgment to her.

To these two let there be joined one from our College Course (Mary Cavallaro) that together all three may show honor to Brighton High School, and receive the medals which shall memorialize their high standing as scholars in whom Alma Mater may justly take pride.

III. Ere we move out into the ranks of the Alumni, we transmit to our successors certain privileges and responsibilities which we have held gladly and faithfully during our Senior year. We relinquish these offices to our Junior comrades with the hope that they may regard them as opportunities for serving their school, and, in filling them, add fresh glories to the name of Brighton High School.

VII. Let the Chief Marshal now receive from his Alma Mater a medal which shall keep in his remembrance this eventful day.

VIII. Let the Seniors now transmit to the Juniors the guardianship of the National Colors.

IX. Let the Seniors now march forth to dedicate the Class Tree which, as its spreading branches add beauty to the noble terraces of their Alma Mater, shall become an ever glorious and living symbol of the enduring loyalty of the Class of 1942 to Brighton High School.

TREE ORATION, CLASS OF '42

We, the Class of 1942, are met here today to dedicate this tree as a living memorial of love and respect for our Alma Mater. As the roots of our tree grow strong and sturdy, so may our lives grow in power and personal achievement. As its branches extend toward the heavens, so may the hearts and souls, and minds of each member of this class reach ever outward and upward, grasping always truth and beauty, inspiration and knowledge. As we give this tree a permanent place in the earth, so too, let us instill in our hearts a deep, abiding loyalty and devotion to the Brighton High School.

And now, in this perilous time of war, our school is urging us to fight to maintain freedom, and to keep in mind our motto, "Where liberty is, there is my native land."

Paul Romano

CLASS ORATION

Mr. Leary, members of the faculty, friends, and fellow students:

We, the Class of 1942, having reached the completion of our high school course of education, and being qualified for graduation, are now prepared to set out upon the journey of life using those principles which have been taught us as compass points to guide our destinies. As the course of our lives lead us out of the serene harbor where we have spent the early years of adolescence into the uncharted waters of life, we cannot restrain regretful longings as we look back upon the familiar landmarks which have been a source of strength, support, and guidance.

The keel of our ship in which we shall traverse the unfathomed depths of the sea was laid as we entered the primary grades; the planks were slowly but substantially and dependably united in the intermediate grades in order that they might resist all the perils and hazards that would undoubtedly arise; then as we entered high school, the masts were hoisted into place to stand as pinnacles of strength that tower into the heights and to support the sails which will embrace the fates.

Thus has been built the ship in which we graduates set out to enter the sea of life that we may grasp the most favorable wind that will eventually lead us safely into the port where we shall spend the rest of our lives.

Suddenly, however, our calm and untroubled sailing is menaced by impending clouds pregnant with storms and by sweeping gales arising from the wrath of Mars, the God of War, zealously and ardently assisted and encouraged by his disciples, the dictator of Germany, the leader of Italy, and the emperor of Japan. As the north star serves as a guide for ships at sea, in like manner greed, lust for power, intolerance, and internal corruption serve as guides for these despotic monsters of war.

These men have brought on the greatest war of all times, a struggle that overshadows everything else in the force of its fury and destruction, for the totalitarian objective is the extermination of individual freedoms. We, the graduates, upon whom the heritage of the American people descends, now assume our responsibilities by rising in vigorous protest against the abolition of all the freedoms that are ours in this land of liberty—freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of assembly, freedom of the press, freedom of petition, and other fundamental freedoms that go with liberty—for the foundation and preservation of which our forefathers endured untold misery. Our very traditions, bequeathed to us by our heroic ancestors ever since the birth of this nation, are threatened with annihilation.

Pride in our country, in her achievements, her fame, her riches, and pride in her place of honor in this world is the incentive which fires us to the pursuit of this war lest we lose all that we hold dear in our American way of life. With earnest desire for the maintenance of liberty, millions of young men are suffering physical pain and mental anguish, possessed by that faith that their hardships are for a cause worthy of their sacrifice.

Classmates, let us follow the example of these men, who, regardless of consequences, are going forth to make this world safe for its self-governing people. Let us employ all our knowledge and all our power to realize this aim; let us give our full, unwearying devotion to this struggle of unpredictable proportions which is now confronting us; and let us forever repel the opposing forces of Imperialism!

In the midst of this tempest, this tumult of war, there stands a lighthouse guilding our ship to a haven of freedom and peace! Let us hold our course toward this light confident in this faith which, classmates, we expressed in our mottor, "Ubi libertas, ibi patria," that proclaims our thought, "where liberty is, there is my native land."

SOTEROS A. VERENIS, Class Orator

CLASS HISTORY

This is the history of the first war class to graduate from Brighton High School since 1917. We sincerely hope that it will be the last. But should the war continue for many years, we believe that the members of the future classes of Brighton High School will follow the example of those of the class of '42 in putting their time, their money, and even, in some cases, their lives at the service of their country.

Yet, gaiety, eagerness, and curiosity prevailed when we entered Brighton High School in 1939, for war seemed very distant. Our new teachers, our new building, our new classmates—all these were eagerly inspected. And in spite of the awe inspired by the immensity of the building, and by the vast superiority of the upperclassmen, we were quite pleased with our new surroundings.

One of the most joyful discoveries we made upon entering Brighton High School was the prowess of its football team. And when the boys in orange and black carried off the district championship, we secretly gave ourselves much credit for cheering them on to victory, for we felt that our sophomore cheers were fully as efficient for this purpose as those of the haughtiest senior.

As the year advanced we became as well acquainted with Brighton High School as the oldest seniors—even including those who had been here upwards of five years.

The coming of spring brought the annual senior play, Growing Pains. After seeing the performance it was not hard for us to believe the proud statements of most of the seniors and of many of the teachers that it was the best play in several years.

But now the end of the year was in sight. Soon we were bidding goodbye to our teachers and classmates. We could scarcely believe that our first year at Brighton High School was over. It had been an eventful one, filled was surprises, novelty, and pleasure, not to mention much hard study.

September seemed to tread on the heels of June, for in a short time, as it seemed to us, we were back at school. "Absence makes the heart grow fonder," says the old proverb, and actually we were not nearly so sorry to be back as we pretended. In fact, we were rather anxious to try out our new powers of intimidation on the sophomores. Our hearts were moved by compassion, however, when we saw how timid they already were, those little novices who were our counterparts of only a year ago, and we decided to treat them with condescension.

Unfortunately, our high spirits were dampened on our return by the discovery that one of the members of our faculty was no longer with us. Mrs. Chadbourne, who will always be remembered for her conscientious and untiring loyalty, had passed away during the summer. This, in one sense was to be an unfortunate year for us, since we lost, in the course of it, Miss Coveney, a teacher of English whom we will always remember for her cheerful disposition and kindly manner, Mr. Gill, one of the most helpful advisers the boys in the cooperative course have ever had, and Miss Barnes, who had, besides her wide knowledge of Latin and history, the gentleness and refinement of a true lady. The deaths of these well-loved teachers were the only events to mar an otherwise completely happy year.

Indeed one of the happiest features of our junior year was to be the success of the football season just opening. Once more our invincibles, led by Mr. Murphy, carried off the district and city championships. But then, as many people said, they had been winning for so long that it was probably hard for them to get out of the habit.

It was soon our misfortune to lose Miss Frankie Sullivan, the beloved head of our English Department, through retirement. With a wealth of natural ability, understanding, humor, and charm, she gathered about her during the many years that she taught at Brighton High School, a devoted group of students. Fortunately, however, she was replaced by Miss Dorothy Lyons, who, by combining energy, skill, and wit with a perpetual willingness to help her pupils has become one of the foremost teachers of Brighton High School.

Political events were meantime brewing. Spectacular slogans making their appearance on blackboards proclaimed the advent of the junior elections. After an exciting campaign the following officers were elected: President, Robert Currie; Vice-President, Margaret Walsh; Secretary-Treasurer, Phyllis Lundquist.

We had scarcely settled back into our accustomed routine before the coming of spring brought with it the senior play, appropriately enough entitled June Mad, which roused us from our spring fever reveries. Although it was at least equal to the senior class production of a year before, our enjoyment of it, sad to say, was mingled with envy and impatience for our chance to come.

Since this was the centennial year of Brighton High School, we were honored by a visit from Mayor Tobin and Governor Saltonstall. How proud we were of our school and of our headmaster, Mr. Rich, when we saw him chatting with our guests during the special exercises held out on the terrace.

The prom, the outing, the class day exercises, in which we were now permitted to participate, followed close upon each other. We could scarcely realize that these events marked the end of our junior year at Brighton High School. so quickly had the time passed. We were nevertheless glad of the respite from our toil, even though some unsympathetic persons claimed that we were not at all wearing ourselves out with study.

However that may be, the return of September once more ended our vacation frolics and brought us flocking back to the gates of our Alma Mater. Full of zeal and eagerness, we were convinced that this, our senior year, was to be one of the most memorable in our lives. Little did we realize then that it was also to be one of the most momentous in the destiny of our nation and of the world.

But our senior year began unfavorably. Mr. Herbert T. Rich, our headmaster, whom we had come to know during two years as the most faithful and helpful of friends, had been forced, by illness, to retire. Educated at Boston

Latin School and then at Harvard University, Mr. Rich had acquired an immense classical culture. But more than this, he had a great heart. Whenever a difficult situation arose, whenever there were problems to solve, whenever things went wrong, Mr. Rich was ready and anxious to help. And there are scores of us who can remember some special kindness or some word of encouragement he gave us when we needed it most. His friends, and they are many, will be glad to know that he is recovering from the illness which removed him from our midst.

We were more fortunate, though, than we could have hoped to be in the choice of his successor. For Mr. Joseph Leary assumed the position which Mr. Rich had vacated. For many years at the head of the mathematics department, Mr. Leary had come to know Brighton High School as well as it knew him. With a mind always open to new ideas, Mr. Leary introduced many innovations. The playing of phonograph records at lunchtime, to mention only one, has thrilled the hearts of the music(?)-lovers in our midst. Mr. Leary's appointment was joyously welcomed by the whole school, and time has shown that our confidence in him was not misplaced. We gratefully wish him many happy years as headmaster of Brighton High School.

We soon begain training for the football season—training our lungs, that is. And there was ample opportunity for cheering, as we soon found out. Under the management of Coach Murphy, for whom all superlatives are weak and insufficient, the team, with a record of no defeats, again captured the district championship. But the obvious reason for the team's success is the talent possessed by the boys on it. George (Touchdown) Greene, Co-Captains De Rubeis and Schettino, and players Roy Connors, William Blinstrub, Bernard Sagansky, William Pacitto, and Warren Pitts have helped to make our team one of the best in Boston. The credit for the superior quality of the Brighton cheering must go to cheerleaders Jacqueline Burns, Irene Carr, Myna Killion, and Pauline Lyons.

The sinister rumblings of war were soon to make themselves heard, however, amid all this jubilance and gaiety. Pupils assembled in the auditorium on December 8 heard the voice of our President as he made his fateful indictment of Japan. In a few weeks the changes inevitably brought about by war were visible in Brighton High School. Many boys, rallying to the cry of "Remember Pearl Harbor!", enlisted. They will ever be an honor to their school. Most of us spent a part of our weekly allowance or earnings in buying defense stamps, or even bonds. And then, of course, came the air raid drills. In these, the sounding of five bells followed by gongs were the warning which served as a signal for our evacuation to the lower floors, an operation which took less than five minutes. Although we regarded these drills with the proper seriousness, we could not help noticing that they often interrupted a test. When, however, they reached that peak of efficiency where they only took a few minutes, some unzealous pupils were all for sending in a petition for MORE AND LONGER AIR RAID DRILLS. The enthusiasm for this project eventually evaporated, though. A course for junior air raid wardens was started by Mr. Looney, our official air raid warden. After a course of about six lessons, in which they learned the rudimentary do's and don'ts of an air raid, the following pupils were given official status as school wardens: Shirley Andelman, Jacqueline Burns, Doris Chalmers, Evelyn Chalmers, Barbara Cravath, Marie Farley, Helen Heistein, Myna Killion, Edith Kraemer, Dorothy Lidstone, Betty Liebman, Dorothy Lipson, Alice Noahson, Betty Ratzkoff, Muriel Reisman, Betty Schaefer, Norma Simons, Caroline Ward, Herberta Wolfe, Jacob Abugov, Richard Allen, Daniel Casale, Clifford Cassidy, William Farquharson, Giosue Fiorentino, Robert Glassman, William MacDonald, Keith Quigley, Thomas Cataldo, and Rolfe Schickler.

But in the United States, even in wartime, democratic processes continue. So it was in Brighton High School when senior election time rolled around. This time the campaign included speeches, in which, it is to be hoped, less political ballyhoo was dispensed than is the custom in most political speeches. After a suspense-filled delay caused by a tie in the vote for Marshal, the following results were announced: President, Carl De Rubeis; Vice-President, Roy Connors; Secretary, Eleanor Buckley; Treasurer, Thomas Houhoulis; Class Orator, Soteros Verenis; Executive Committee, Lorretta Burke, Nancy Siwicke, Vincent Schettino; Marshals, Richard Allen, Albin Webber, Daniel Casale, Robert Nicholson, Jacqueline Burns, Pauline Lyons, Catherine Murphy, and Dorothea Nelson.

Soon the senior play held, literally and figuratively, the center of the stage. Ever Since Eve, directed by Mr. and Mrs. Burnham, proved to be one of the most outstanding productions Brighton had seen in many a year. A glance at the names in the cast will show why. For it included John Glynn, Myna Killion, Jacqueline Burns, Carl De Rubeis, Connie Murphy, Joseph Gately, Natalie Tefft, Richard Allen, Norma Simons, Roy Connors, Robert Glassman, and the football team.

Two weeks after the performance of the senior play, the senior promenade was held in the Hotel Bradford. The soft lights of the ballroom, the gay music of the orchestra, and the beautiful gowns of the girls made this occasion a truly memorable one.

But all these events so eagerly awaited were but milestones marking the way to this day of days—Class Day. And now at this moment we realize how much Brighton High School has meant in our lives. The nation was at peace when we came here three years ago. We entered as light-hearted children; we leave as young men and women, realizing our responsibilities in a troubled world. We, as a war class, have far greater obstacles to overcome, far greater problems to solve than have previous peacetime classes. But we intend to meet those problems with what Brighton High School gave us—faith in ourselves and in the future of our country. And the class of '42 will succeed, we hope and believe, as completely as did the class of '17.

THE SENIOR PROMENADE

Attention! the highlight of the year.

As graduation was fast approaching, the Seniors concentrated on the most delightful, social event of the year, the Senior Prom.

Eagerly they waited for the closing of school so that they could make their way to their homes only thinking of one thing, the glorious evening ahead of them.

On May 15th, the ballroom of the Hotel Bradford looked like a beautiful rainbow, as the girls mingled together in their devastating gowns. By nine-thirty, the Prom was well under way and the dancers swayed to the entrancing and rhythmic music of Paul Dearborn's orchestra. His vocalists, with their soft voices, entertained throughout the evening.

A brief intermission brought the merry crowd to the cooling punch, ice cream, and delicious cake. Little groups then gathered to chat about this long anticipated affair.

In their regal manner, President Carl DeRubeis and his lovely partner, Jean Ingraham, proved the inspiration for the rest of the class to follow in the most important event of the evening, the Grand March.

One of the most remembered and enjoyed school event was brought to an end by the strains of the fairwell waltz. This 1942 Prom will be cherished in the memories of each Senior throughout their coming years.

The members of the Executive Committee who tried to make this Prom a success were: Nancy Siwicke, Loretta Burke, and Vincent Schettino.

BRIGHTON

For another season, Brighton's great record has been kept intact, due to the fine coaching of Mr. Murphy and the spirit and enthusiasm of the entire squad. The record achieved was four victories and three ties, bringing the total to twenty-one games without defeat. The score of the games were: Jamaica Plain, 10 to 0; East Boston, 0 to 0; Hyde Park, 26 to 7; Charlestown, 28 to 0; Dorchester, 6 to 6; South Boston, 6 to 6; Roslindale, 6 to 0.

The close of the season found several of the players among those chosen for the All Scholastic Teams. George Greene, our accomplished left end, led the squad by being chosen for nearly every team, including state-wide teams. Vincent Schettino and Carl De Rubeis were honored by being selected as members of many teams. Guards Bill Pacitto and Tom Houhoulis, and end Bill Blinstrub, the remaining members of the line, all received recognition. Pacitto was one of the lightest men ever to be on a Brighton team, but proved himself to be invaluable by playing both guard and quarter back. In the backfield, we had one of the hardest hitting full backs in Boston in Al Maregni, and a fine blocking back in Dave Freedman. Warren Pitts, our center, although handicapped by injuries, was a vitally important member of the team.

To the juniors, Henesy, P. Houhoulis, Grant, Granahan, and to the sophomores, Eldridge and Adams much credit is due. These boys form the nucleus of a championship team, which will, without a doubt, be developed by the brilliant coaching mind of Bill Murphy.

TRACK

Our success in track this year was due to our wonder coach Bill Murphy. The success of coach Murphy's track men is in itself unique and would testify to his coaching ability apart from his great success in other sports.

Although Coach Murphy was the spearhead, our new headmaster, Mr. Leary has done a great deal to popularize this great sport.

The district crown was not presented to Brighton, but what the team lacked in points the boys made up in fighting heart and dauntless spirit. Their fighting spirit was shown all year round, but especially when they received fourth honors in a competitive race with all the other district schools.

In the Reggies, Brighton went breezing through six district schools including East Boston which previously had taken a second in the districts. Brighton gathered ten points while Eastie tallied with four points.

Special attention must be given to Captain Joseph Aldonis for his sterling leadership, Lee Anthony for tying the class "D" 50 yard dash mark, Gregory Henesey, John Artesani, Donald Culgin, Alfred Colby, and Coleman McGowan.

HOCKEY

Long before Old Man Winter had bestowed on us the glorious ice, the team was obliged to practice in the Gym. When the ice did arrive Coach Murphy and his able Captain Mark Curran, formed the team around the nucleus of the returning lettermen, Curran, Greene and O'Keefe.

After watching the boys perform in practice Mr. Murphy picked the first team, consisting of Mark Curran, center; Charles Baysides, right wing; George Green, left wing; Joseph Gately, right defense; Leonard O'Keefe, left defense; and Jack Cunningham, in the nets. Some of the players who filled in nobly for the first team are Francis McCormack, Richard West, John Glynn, Walter Cook, James Harrison, George Marchione, Charles Beard, Robert Leonard, Francis McGrath, and Robert Madigan.

The Orange and Black defeated Charlestown in the opening game, but due to a slight letdown were tied by South Boston and Jamaica Plain in that order. Burnt up with anger, the team came to life, smashing out a five to three victory over Hyde Park in which its Captain figured in all five goals.

Curran and his able Defenseman O'Keefe were picked on the Boston Herald "All Boston" Team.

The success of the team was due to the squad, the Captain, the Coach and the two team mottoes, "Team Play" and "Team Work."

SCORES

Brighton, 4	Charlestown, 3	Brighton, 5	Hyde Park, 3
Brighton, 2	South Boston, 2	Brighton, 1	Roslindale, 2
Brighton, 1	Jamaica Plain, 1	Brighton, 0	East Boston, 0

BASEBALL

Among the thirty-five candidates greeted by Coach Bill Murphy and Captain George Green there were but four lettermen. The four returning lettermen were Captain George Greene, Bob Holland, "Buck" Kidik, and Charles Baysides. The rest of the team was composed of Bob Bower, Fran McCormick, Bob Donahue, Dick Grant, and John Centola.

Due to the inexperience of the majority of the team the first few games were lost, but Brighton soon started to win as the team was moulded from nine players into a single unit by Coach Murphy.

We seniors on the team expect the juniors and sophomores, who predominate, to bring the City Championship to Brighton High School within the next two years.

GEORGE GREENE, Captain

THE CHEER LEADERS

The Cheer Leaders for this year were Jacqueline Burns, Pauline Lyons, Myna Killion, and Irene Carr.

In colorful black and orange outfits, they led the school in cheering the football team on to victory. In their aim they were successful as the team was one of the best we have ever had. We are sure the boys were heartened to hear the loud roar of cheers, knowing that the entire school was behind them.

JACQUELINE BURNS

AIR RAID WARDENS

As the United States steps deeper into the world's conflict the possibilities of air raids on our coastal cities grow each day. Therefore fearful of the disaster often left by unpreparedness. Mr. Looney and Miss Lyons laid plans for the Brighton High School Air Raid Patrol. The group of students who volunteered did so with the understanding that there would be no parties, no dances, nor any officers elected, as is usual with other extra-curricular activities.

A course of instruction was held on Tuesday afternoon during February and March. Talks on civilian defense were given by Mr. Looney, Miss Lyons, Captain Howard of the Boston Fire Department.

A written examination was held at the end of the course. Those students who passed the examination were assigned to stations about the school. These posts were patrolled during the practice air raid drills held each week.

It is our sincere hope that we shall never again have cause to organize another Air Raid Patrol.

IN MEMORIAM

FREDERIC ALLISON TUPPER

Our Head Master, Emeritus, Frederic Allison Tupper, has passed on. He served the Brighton High School from 1898 to 1928 during which time his guidance developed the school to such popularity and efficiency that it outgrew the old building. The nobleness of the design of our new school was due to his insistence that his boys and girls, being the finest, deserved the most beautiful school building.

The fathers and mothers of many of you remember Mr. Tupper with deep affection, with a sincere gratitude because of the inspiration of his uprightness, his broad and deep wisdom, his great loyalty. He had an immense effect on the character of his boys and girls. Those who were fortunate in being in his Vergil class learned great respect for his contiguous appreciation and love of the classics. The boys will never forget his oversight of military drill which was so painstaking that the companies always carried away all the prizes in the inter-regimental company prize drills year after year.

The next time you go to the auditorium, look at his portrait at the right of the stage; note his kindly expression, his strength of character, his delightful whimsicality, his fine intelligence; and think him for your beautiful, noble school which so truly symbolizes him and which is his monument.

SIDNEY PETERSON, Head of Science Department

IN MEMORIAM

MILDRED PAULA CUMMINGS

The pupils of the Brighton High School regret the passing of Miss Mildred P. Cummings, a teacher who had won a place of her own in their hearts.

When Miss Cummings graduated from Girls' Latin School in 1918, she was awarded a four-year scholarship by Radcliffe College. In three and one half years she had completed her work and received her A.B. degree with honors. The following year she received her A.M. degree from Boston University where she majored in French. Her sabbatical years were spent in study in France and Germany, where she received degrees from the Sorbonne and Freiberg Universities. In recent years she spent her summers at Middlebury College, Vermont, where she was registered for the doctorate in modern foreign languages.

Since 1927 Miss Cummings had been a member of the Brighton High School Faculty, distinguished for her ability and her lovable personality. She will be missed, by pupils and faculty.
